In addition to being admitted as a degree-seeking student at Alaska Pacific University, students in the Degree Completion Program are required to verify that they are employed in their field at the time of admission. (Note: Students in Human Services program may be employed or volunteer 10 hours per week in their field.) The purpose of this requirement is that students are expected to practice the knowledge and skills gained in the modules in their daily work life. Further, the final research project is designed to be used in the person's work or volunteer environment.
